

SHIPS SAVED 11 SAILORS FROM SEA

Crew of Ill-Fated Ship
Found in Caribbean Sea
After Over Week

5 WERE DROWNED

Pilot of Plane Leads Rescue Ship to Scene

COLON, Panama, Nov. 12.—Snatched from a watery grave that claimed the lives of five men when the coastal steamer Baden foundered in a storm en route from Colon to Panama, eleven men were rescued by the U. S. Coast Guard cutter Albatross, which was on duty in the area. The crew of the ill-fated ship was found floating in an open lifeboat.

First news that the disaster had taken a heavy toll of life was given to the crew of the Swan by the Captain of the ill-fated vessel, who was among the eleven men rescued after lengthy search by sea and air.

CAPTAIN HURT
The captain of the ship which was of Costa Rican registry, was suffering from a severe injury to his spine. The other ten men were weak from exposure and lack of food, but none was reported in a serious condition.

Joseph Lau, owner of the ship, was one of those rescued, together with the other survivors, he had tossed for days in the cockleshell in raging storms, while American warships, passenger liners, freighters and six seaplanes scoured the Caribbean for traces of them.

The search was instituted when the pilot of a Pan-American Airways plane reported sighting the castaways 75 miles off the coast of Colombia.

The commander of the Swan advised United States naval authorities he had taken the survivors aboard and was proceeding immediately to the Coco Solo naval base with the battered lifeboat in tow.

Sixteen men comprised the crew of the Baden-Baden but five of them perished before the Swan arrived.

Flying a huge Commodore plane, the Pilot, R. H. Ormsbee, advised officials of the line he would have been able to rescue the men but for the fact heavy seas made a descent upon the surface impossible.

VESSELS HUNT
As soon as Ormsbee's report was received, all vessels in the vicinity of the spot where the lifeboat was seen were asked to keep a close watch. The first to arrive on the scene was the steamer Costa Rica, whose master advised International News Service yesterday he could find no traces of the lifeboat.

Other vessels which scoured the spot prior to the arrival of the Swan included the Galah, which was equally unsuccessful in its search. Six seaplanes went out from the naval base at Balboa, gravely a raging storm and dense fog in an effort to locate the castaways.

More Efficient Operation Is Ex-

Directors of the farm body re-elected present officers. Three new directors were placed on the board by delegates. They were Herbert Marshall of Allen-co, succeeding Fred Gerdmann of Ottawa for Allen, Putnam, Van Wert, and Paulding counties; C. S. Campbell of Cambridge succeeding Sam H. Bell of Zanesville for Muskingum, Perry and Morgan-cos, and W. R. Kemp of Athens, succeeding Arthur Johnson of Adams, Meigs-co, for Athens, Meigs, Vinton and Gallia-cos.

A fourth director-at-large, Mrs. Edward Schramm, Russia-twp, Lorain-co, was elected as required by the new constitution and Mrs. N. L. Steva of St. Marys was returned to the same post. A move to reduce annual dues in the federation from $10 to $5 was defeated after a heated discussion.

Apparently indicating dissatisfaction of the conduct of the Ohio State Fair, a resolution was passed by the delegates urging appointment of a committee to study the fair needs and to make recommendations as to its management.

HUNT DOCTOR IN DEATH OF WOMAN

CRYSTAL LAKE, Ill. Nov. 12.—A doctor accused of performing illegal operations was hunted today as McHenry-co authorities attempted to identify the body of a woman found buried in quicklime in a shallow grave near here.

Investigating the murder on the theory that the victim was a nurse who "squealed" on a certain surgeon's shady practices the authorities scouted the area that the killing was due to a gaudy vendetta.

The body was exactly dismembered. Both feet had been cut off. The upper teeth were removed. The lower jaw was missing.

Rigby claimed self-defense in his story to police. He said that he had asked Kize to move his cab so that he might back out of a parking space. Kize refused, Rigby said and started a fight when Rigby attempted to shove his car out of the way.

Coroner Edward E. Smith planned an autopsy today to determine the cause of the taxi driver's death.

His Room Not Known

Announcement was made here Thursday that the Ohio Fuel Gas Co., a subsidiary of the Columbia Gas & Electric Corp., has purchased the property owned by the Scioto Valley Traction Co., at Court and Watt-sts and will take possession of the new building Nov. 15. The deal was consummated through Mack Parrett Jr., with the purchase price not disclosed.

The name of this company was changed in 1899 to the Logan Gas Co. and in 1928 the organization was made a part of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. George Forst, N. Court-st., has been connected with the local company since 1897.

TO SPEND MONEY

The utility, according to Mr. Forst, is contemplating expenditure of approximately $5,000 in improving and beautifying the property. This program, Mr. Forst says, will probably not be started until early in 1932. It is planned to beautify the grounds and to make a corner which has always been more or less a loitering place a beauty spot in the city. Flower gardens will probably be built on the property with the building undergoing a complete remodeling.

The Valley Public Service Co., operators of busses plying between Columbus and Chillicothe and Columbus and Lancaster, will abandon the room after Sunday, according to Mr. Gibson who has been station agent since the traction line was abandoned over a year ago. Tickets will be handled by Robert Cook, who, with his confectionery will remain at his present location. Failure of the bus business to progress satisfactorily is given as the reason for abandonment of the regular office.

PLANS UNKNOWN

Plans of Walker Baughman for his building have not been announced although it has been stated that he is contemplating making a rest-room of the building.

GOVERNOR SEEKS HIGHWAY ECONOMY

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—A request that every possible economy be exercised by the state highway department in order to "make the monies at hand go as far as possible and serve the largest number of people" was made today by Governor George White in a communication addressed to Highway Director O. W. Merrell.

FUNDS ARE LESS

Pointing out that funds for highway improvement project in Ohio during the coming year will be about $8,000,000 less than the funds which were available last year, the governor informed Merrell that he has given a great deal of thought to the program of the highway department during this winter and the 1932 construction season.

Governor White recommended that the present investment on Ohio's narrow roads be conserved and that these highways be made safe for traffic by widening and by building new tops.

Continuance and extension of the highway department present policy or erecting creosoted timber bridges, of durable construction and low cost on the secondary roads, also, was endorsed by Governor White.

Although about $35,000,000 were available this year for highway improvement projects, officials of the highway department today estimated that not more than $27,000,000 would be available for expenditure by this department during the coming year.

Four factors were cited by these officials as being responsible for this $8,000,000 deficit.

One was an estimated loss of about $3,600,000 in federal aid. (Continued on Page Eight.)

A. F. of L.'s 50 Years Is Proud Record

Half a Century of Achievement in Bettering Conditions for the Worker Is an Accomplishment Looked Back Upon With Pride by American Federation of Labor.

By JOHN BAER COURTESY OF "LABOR" SAMUEL GOMPERS

WASHINGTON, D. C. — One August day, fifty years ago, a group of ardent trade unionists, who had been zealously working for a general labor organization that would unite all unions in a common movement for the protection and advancement of the wage-earner, met in Terre Haute, Ind., to confer about the subject nearest to their hearts. Out of that conference grew the Pittsburgh Congress of Nov. 15, 1881, which resulted in the formation of the Federation of Trades and Labor Unions, now known as the American Federation of Labor. With that organization celebrating its fiftieth birthday, it looks back upon half a century of proud achievement; for though, as Charles Baer points out in his drawing to commemorate the occasion, the Federation is still a kid, it has grown to proportions undreamed of by its pioneering creators. There were 107 delegates at that first congress—the majority representing local organizations in Pittsburgh, mainly connected with the steel industry. Today the American Federation of Labor congress brings delegates by the thousands from every corner of the country. These delegates represent close to 3,000,000 workers in every line of endeavor, from window-washer to locomotive engineer. During its 50 years of existence the Federation has done much to brighten the life of the worker. It has reduced his hours of labor and enlarged his compensation, enabling him to reach and maintain a better standard of living—a standard unapproached in any other country in the world. By the promotion of the eight-hour day, which was enacted by Congress in 1892, the Federation earned the gratitude of millions of workers whose definition of life had theretofore been work to bed, bed to work. That alone justified the dreamers who had brought the Federation into existence. But it is not only the worker who has benefited by the work of the American Federation of Labor. Industry, too, has profited; for it was found that with increased time for recuperation and recreation, the worker proved more efficient at his job. To the organization, also, must go the credit for wiping out the blackest blot upon the banner of industry—child labor. The first convention of the A. F. of L. declared against the employment of children under the age of 14 in any occupation. Now, all but two States have made 14 years the minimum age for workers. In addition to securing children protection in their education opportunities, the Federation has helped to promote many beneficial policies, such as free text books in public schools and reduction of the size of classes so that children may have adequate instruction and supervision. Of the five original creators of this mighty organization there is only one now living. He is Charles F. Burman, of Daytona Beach, Fla. Mr. Burman is seventy-eight years old, and has watched the Federation grow since its inception at Pittsburgh to the powerful machine that it is today. Under the leadership of the late Samuel Gompers and its present president, William Green, the organization has gone from triumph to triumph in its laudable work of bettering conditions for the workers of the country. The Federation is now working on an extensive program for unemployment relief for the winter of 1931-32 and one hopes that its efforts will meet with the same success that has smiled on many of its other ventures.

CHARLES F. BURMAN

Each Prohibition Case Costs $124, Figures Disclose

WASHINGTON, NOV. 12.—An average of $125 each was the cost of the 62,902 prohibition cases made by the field forces of the federal dry bureau in the year ending last June, Commissioner Amos W. W. Woodcock announced today. The total appropriation for the field forces was $7,838,455, while collections from fines, penalties and taxes amounted to $4,138,211. The annual net per capita cost of enforcement in the field per agent was $2,426. The cost of maintaining each agent was $5,140 in the field, while the average collection per agent amounted to $2,714. An average of 1,925 agents was employed in the field during the year. Prohibition costs were heaviest in New York with $1,142,998. In the New Orleans district the government spent $974,379, the largest in the extent of territory. The Philadelphia district ranked third with $854,379, Cincinnati fourth with $749,163 and Chicago fifth with $636,823. Woodcock estimated that the per capita cost of operating the prohibition bureau was 4.2 cents. He pointed out that the next expenditure in 1931 was $9,416,846, with collections of $4,138,211, giving a net operating cost of $5,278,634. Many millions in addition are expended for prohibition activities by the federal courts, the federal prisons, and the coast guard and department. There was a sharp increase in the number of pending prohibition cases during the first four months of the current fiscal year. At the end of October 22,936 cases were pending on federal court dockets, an increase of 2,924 since June 30, and on state court dockets 3,899 cases, an increase of 1,344. During this period there were 25,564 cases in which arrests were made for trials in federal courts and 6,512 in state courts. In the four months 153 jury trials resulted in conviction while 13,427 entered pleas of guilty in federal courts with 192 convictions by juries in state courts and 3,588 pleas of guilty. Federal court acquittals amounted to 1,729 and those in state courts 505.

SCRAPS LEFT BY DOG GIVEN TO CHILDREN

By KINGSBURY SMITH
WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—A revealing tale of how an airdale dog was pampered for four years by a step-mother who during the same period allegedly tortured her little 13-year-old step-daughter, was told today by Francis Riley, 15-year-old brother of Edith Riley, rescued by police from years of alleged cruelty.

"My step-mother often gave Edith the scraps which the dog left," the boy told International News.

"She thought more of the dog than she did of either my sister or me," he continued. "He was her pet and got better food and treatment than either of us."

"He was always fed before Edith, and many times before me. I never received the attention my step-mother gave him."

"We had him for about four years, and lately he was taught to guard the door of the closet in which Edith was kept."

Francis spoke without any fear of the beatings his father allegedly threatened him with if he talked about his home life. He talked freely because he was safe in the home of his young and attractive aunt, Mrs. Louise Hall, where he pleaded to be sent.

Judge Katherine Sellers, juvenile court, ordered him committed to the care of the aunt. He had pathetically appealed.

"Please don't send me back to that home, nor to the welfare industrial home. I am afraid to go home and the welfare home is terrible. They make you wear night gowns and put on dresses. I want to be with my aunt, where I can play and go out when I want to."

Edith, too, awoke today assured of safety from abuse at the hands of her stepmother. Judge Sellers decreed that she should remain under the care of the Child Welfare Bureau and that a home be found for her, when and if her health improves sufficiently.

Still wan and wasted from days and nights of solitary confinement in a dark, dungeon-like closet, Edith was just beginning to show interest in the playthings which a normal girl of thirteen starts to forget.

She toyed for the first time with a little celluloid doll, evidenced more interest in picture-books, and called for a mouth-organ, a picture of which she had apparently seen. She also asked for a jar of water, "with things swimming in it." This was prompted by the picture of a gold-fish bowl.

Her increased interest in these things and the fact she is rapidly gaining weight has led doctors to believe that care and proper treatment may eventually restore her retarded mentality and enable her to enjoy the pleasures of life which have so long been denied her.

SUPPRESSING NAZI PRESS
BERLIN.—Adolf Hitler's National Socialist Party celebrated a jubilee recently over the hundredth suppression of a Nazi newspaper within less than one year. Those few Nazi papers still allowed to be published are asking cautiously how this procedure fits into democracy and "freedom of the press" guaranteed by the Weimar constitution.

Weds; Defies King

Prince Nicholas (above), second son of the Dowager Queen Marie of Rumania, defied his brother, King Carol, when he sped away from Budapest to a small village and compelled the mayor to marry him to Mme. Jana Lucia Delet, a divorced beauty not of noble birth. King Carol, on hearing of his brother's defiance and marriage, ordered that all records of the nuptials be destroyed and officially denied the wedding.

SORORITIES ECONOMIZE
LAWRENCE, Kan.—Old Men Depression has risen up and smitten University of Kansas student orchestras flat. This is the result of a decision of K. U. sororities to restrict their annual parties to two, instead of the usual minimum of four. Prices of 11-piece orchestras for an evening chapter dance will be reduced from $130 to $100, it was said. Prices in the past have ranged as high as $500 in several rare instances when orchestras with nationally known leaders were brought in for formal parties. The sorority action is expected to be followed by similar moves on the part of fraternities.

Any member of the family of John Baer, E. Franklin-st., is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Changing Appetites
YEARS ago the principal source of income for the sheep herdsman in this country was wool. That was before Americans had acquired or cultivated a taste for mutton and lamb.
Several decades ago sheep raising to supply the wool market was one of the most extensive branches of agriculture in such Eastern states as New York, Pennsylvania and Ohio. But the post-war slump in wool has depressed the industry that whole herds of sheep were slaughtered and their pastures turned over to dairy cattle or placed under cultivation where sufficiently fertile.
Seeing greater stability ahead in the sheep industry, the department of agriculture at Washington predicts increasing prosperity for the sheep raisers. This roseate view is inspired chiefly by growing demand for lamb and mutton on the American dinner table.
Though roast lamb and lamb and mutton chops are more to the American taste than formerly, they are not so generally in demand here as in England, or for that matter, in Canada. They are as frequently on the British Menu as pork is on the American.
This difference in carnivorous appetites is due, in part, to the fact that American sheep are raised for their wool first and their meat afterward, while in England certain ovine species are raised for their meat alone. And then the British epicure wants his mutton as relatively short period on the hoof and a relatively long time in the refrigerator. As a result he gets his lamb roast and mutton chops more palatable and tender than they are served in America.
If the American sheep raiser, with aid of the department of agriculture, can produce a better mutton chop a use will have been found for millions of acres of land fit for grazing and nothing else.

About Women
IT has ever been the complaint of women that she is not appreciated by the opposite sex, that man has ever held her inferior to himself, and that society has done women the gross injustice of classifying her below unskilled labor of the male sex.
Masculinity is expected, obviously, to assume from this feminine protest that femininity has been underrated by the self-styled stronger sex and that woman holds herself in much greater esteem than she is held by the male of the species. If such an assumption is correct, the utterances of the acknowledge leaders of the fair sex should bear it out, but that they do not has been shown to the satisfaction of at least the members of one sex by a bibliography. He quotes from famous women:
"A woman talks as a brook babbles—pleasantly but without thought." Marie Corelli.
"Women are most unreasoning beings. What is woman? Only one of nature's agreeable blunders."—Mrs. Cowley.
"Women is the lesser creature, the inferior animal of the two; her passions, her strength, her intellect are less."—Jean Ingelow.
"It is an unspoken, unscripted opinion to woman is a blessing to a man."—George Eliot.
On the other hand, these scathing femininity meanderings have been too weakly sex baby think greater among their sex is sorely.

Form the Think Habit
FEAR of making mistakes has made failures of as many men as mistakes have made success. Failures are owed into their grasp by the same possibilities of mistakes challenged by the success among men.
A popular adage is "The man who never made a mistake never made a dollar," but a truer statement of fact might be "The man who never made a mistake has not yet lived."
Exceeding that all men make mistakes, it is manifest that only the same mistake repeated is unpardonable and the habit, not the individual mistake is costly. Somebody pays every time somebody blunders and the only way to correct the habit of blundering is to form that habit of doing things right. Form the habit of being careful and take pains today that you may spare yourself in avoidable gain tomorrow. Many are blundering on to success by making the most of their blunders.
The haunting specter in every mistake is the thought that it could have been avoided by a little thought. The adventitious actions easier than thought and much of humanity is indolent.
Thinking can be made a habit just from force of habit. Cultivate the habit of thinking before acting.

The CZARINA'S RUBIES
by Sidney Warwick
READ THIS FIRST
The owner of the Czarna rubies, Prince Murinov, loses his life defending them from a Russian revolutionary mob. Then years later Frank Severn goes to Russia, finds the gems and entrusts them to Fedoroff, who disappears.
Severn returns to his country place in England and is kidnapped. His friend, Jim Wynter, tries in vain to save him.
Katharine Faring, once a celebrated young violinist, has had to give up her career, because of an injury. Lester Malin tries to trap her into accepting his attentions by falsely accusing her of stealing a necklace.
NOW GO ON CHAPTER XI
The big figure swung back into the roulette room. He crossed over to Milly.
"Milly," he said abruptly, "not thinking of making a move just yet? Fact is I have to rush off unexpectedly for half an hour, but I'll be back as soon as I can to escort you home."
"That's all right, Jimmy," Milly assured him, and wondered why his usually cheerfully smiling face should look suddenly so frowning and unamiable.
Wynter's eyes had just fallen on Malin, sleek, over-fed, with his confident self-assurance. Malin had come back from the telephone, no doubt to make his adieu to his hostess, but evidently in no great hurry as he paused watching the play.
Which was all to the good from the point of view of Wynter, who had rather set his heart on reaching Katharine's flat first.
At the door of the room he met a maid servant entering. She glanced at the tall figure.
"Mr. Wynter, I think," she asked, "Some one wants you on the phone, sir."
Wynter, impatient at the delay, strode into the small room where the telephone was and growled into the transmitter.
SURPRISE
To his amazement it was Katharine's answering voice that came to him.
"Mr. Wynter, I'm rather desperately in need of a friend just now," she said, her voice a little breathless and unsteady. "And I thought of you. You are Frank Severn's friend—that is my only claim on you. But I'd be so grateful if you'd come at once."
"Why, of course, straight away! As fast as a taxi will bring me. What's the address?"
It was an address within a mile of the Hildens' flat. Wynter hung up the receiver, grabbed his hat and coat, and was shot down the lift. It was rather wonderful that Katharine should have turned to him in her need of a friend.
Luck was with him as he ran out into the street. A taxi was slithering past with its flag up. He gave Katharine's address.
"And drive like hell!" Wynter added tersely as he jumped in.
It was a small, unpretentious flat, very different from that of the Hildens'. Katharine herself opened the door to him. Her rather apologetic smile of greeting could not hide the troubled look he saw in the dark eyes.
"Thank you for coming. It was good of you—" she began.
"Good Lord! What's there to thank me for?" he laughed. "I'm only jolly glad that, finding you needed a friend, you thought of me."
Wynter followed her into a room simply, almost austere furnished. He was introduced to a little old lady with white hair and wonderfully young eyes looking out of a charming face like old ivory. This friend of Katharine's, who rather suggested a figure of delicate Dresden china, was the Countess Drusloff, once a lady in waiting to the Empress of all the Russias and now a refugee thankful for pupils to whom to teach music. She shared this flat with Katharine. A rather shabby figure, but a grande dame, every inch of her still, whom adversity had not robbed of her cheerfulness, or vivacity, or charm.
For a moment the little old lady seemed to survey the big Englishman critically. Then she nodded her head, as if she approved of what she saw.
"Yes, Mr. Wynter, I am sure Katharine did well to turn to you in her difficulty—even at such an unconventional hour as this!" she said, with smiling frankness in her deeply broken English. "Now I will leave you together to talk."

Wynter laughed.
"Thank that of you? Good Lord! I should hope I had more sense! Not for a blessed minute, of course!" Her eyes flashed him her thanks.
"Then I looked in my bag, Mr. Wynter, the jade and pearls were there! Thrust into an inner pocket that I hadn't opened till then since leaving the roulette table. The sight of them took my breath away," she cried. "My first thought was to ring up Mrs. Grayson and tell her I had found them in my bag. But Malin's accusation frightened me—his word against mine. You see, I couldn't explain how the necklace came to be there—"
"But I'll bet Malin could," Wynter said.
"Oh, how could any one be so vile!" the girl broke out passionately. "Perhaps it was his revenge—"
"The man's been pestering you hasn't he?"
She nodded.
"For a long time. He guessed I had lost more than I could afford tonight, he said he would like to make good my losses and—oh, I can't tell you! I struck him in the face."
"Splendid!"
THE GIVE-AWAY
"It was only after I had walked away that I remembered I had left my bag behind in that little ante-room—"
"And gave the man his chance—since, probably, he'd already found that dropped necklace. When he proposed to accuse you, he really was giving himself away. How could he have known where the necklace was, unless he had put it there? Damn him!" growled Wynter.
A ring at the door of the flat cut across his words.
"There he is, I expect. Better he shouldn't see me just at first. I'll wait in this room, shall I, with the door ajar?"
Wynter's face was dark. A man capable of seeking to entrap a woman, as Malin had done, out of revenge, or still more evilly to get her into his power—oh, he was very glad that Katharine had turned to him!

Fear Is the Friend of Disease
Know the Truth If You Suspect Cancer, for Early Treatment May Effect Cure
By R. S. COPELAND, M. D.
U. S. Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.
RECENTLY I have received letters relating to cancer. Too much cannot be written on this subject. The cancer situation rests largely on the public. Its prevention and cure rests with you.
Doctors cannot cure people who do not seek early examination and treatment. For the present, at least, this is the way to deal with cancer. It can be combated successfully if it is recognized in its early stages.
Most persons are under the impression there has been a tremendous increase in cancer. This is not so. It is true there are more cases of cancer known today than ten years ago. But this is because modern physicians have trained themselves so that they are more capable of detecting this condition than medical men did a dozen years ago. This means that more cases of cancer are discovered today than in former years.
Many a woman suffers tortures of mind, fearing she has cancer. Yet she won't go to a doctor. She is sure she has cancer, yet has not been told so by one competent to judge. The fact is she is afraid to consult a physician for fear he might confirm her fears.
Avoid Needless Suffering
She is suffering needlessly, in all probability. The chances are there is no cancer. Yet she makes it exceedingly difficult for the doctor to deal with the disease if it actually exists. She is losing valuable time. As I have told you again and again, when cancer is recognized early and the proper measures are taken, the disease may be entirely cured. On the other hand, if the disease is permitted to run on for a long time without treatment, very little can be accomplished in the way of actual cure. The most that can be hoped for when cancer is neglected is relief of the pain.
If you have any complaint, particularly any physical defect that makes you suspect cancer, do not follow ill given advice, but consult with your physician. He has been trained in these matters. He is always on the alert for early signs of cancer and will know exactly what to do. It is only by your honest cooperation that the disease can be eradicated. When you approach the problem in that spirit, you are on the way to recovery.

Theaters
AT THE CLIFTONA
If Charlie Ruggles doesn't this year get one of those awards given by somebody or other for the premier comedy-acting of the season, then a lot of people are going to let down their hair and cry in their beer.
For the eminently funny Mr. Ruggles has a big following among the honored gentry who take (or leave) their amusement on the talking screen—and he'll add thousands to the hosts of Ruggles admirers after "The Girl Habit" rets circulated around the country.
This picture opened at the Cliftona Theater today, and will cause audiences to shriek with laughter. The plot is not a complicated one. It doesn't have to be—for the abundant comedy situations provide all the complications required for a Ruggles full play for his genius as a fun-maker. His own wit style of making laughs grow where another lesser comedian would fail is enough to great advantage in this farce.
AT THE GRAND
It is news worth heeding that Winnie Lightner tomboy of the talkies and Charles Butterworth, meekest and most solemn funny-man living are co-featured in "Side Show" the Warner Bros. picture which comes to the Grand Theater Sunday.
Not that Miss Lightner's work in "Side Show" is all clowning for this film gives her first chance to be serious. She plays the part of assistant to the owner of the "world's greatest circus," hires help and fire, and on occasion doubles for Julia dancer canibal or bearded lady. But the serious part of the business appears when her pretty sister comes to spend a vacation with the show, and while on the lot alienates the af-

ASTORIA, Ore.—The old Dutch windmill will be put to new use near Seaside, Oregon, in the farmers' battle to keep invading elk from their ranches. The Seaside chamber of commerce has authorized the building of an experimental "elk chasing" windmill in a pasture frequented by the elk. To the axle of this mill will be attached a kerosene can, containing pebbles. When the wind blows, the mill will turn and the pebbles beat noisily against the sides of the tin can, according to mill-times.
Others in the east are Evalyn Knapp, Donald Cook, Guy Kibbee, Louise Carver, Mathew Betz, Ann Magruder, Luis Alberni, Edward Morgan, Tom Ricketts and Otto Hoffman. Roy DelRuth directed. "Side Show" is a picture for all whose hearts are young. Take the whole family.
Any member of the family of Nelson Baker, R. F. D. No. 6, is invited to be a guest of The Herald to the Grand Theatre. Call at this office for ticket.

Denies Students' Drinking Parties

COLUMBUS, O. — It's not true: that current belief that Joe College and his girl can drink the college boy and girl of a generation ago under the table.

Tales of wild drinking orgies at various Ohio colleges and universities have not frightened professional prohibition workers, according to Dr. Leigh Colvin of New York, chairman of the Prohibition party's national committee, who is here this week, heading a 'prohibition conference' at Ohio State University.

Drinking among college men and women isn't serious enough to combat, he told International News Service in an exclusive interview. Although a great prohibition campaign is being waged on nearly every Ohio campus, the aim is to explain the law and the history of its enactment, and not to set up a great shout for its enforcement, Colvin said.

The idea there are greater drinkers in the colleges now than there were when Dad and Mother were going to school was emphatically pooh-poohed by Colvin.

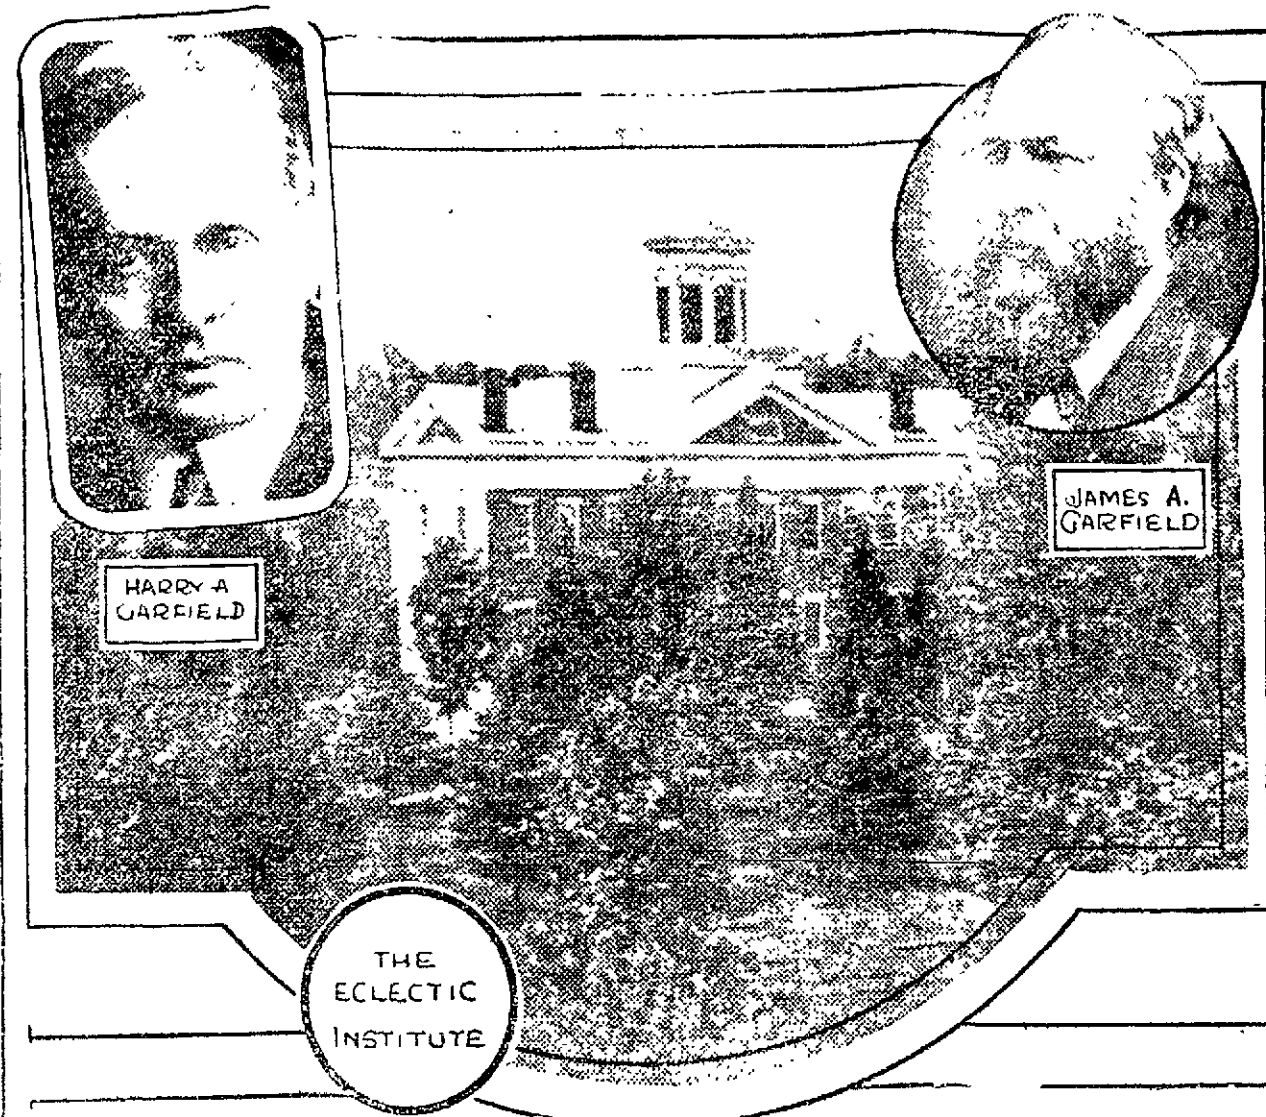

"Drinking in six colleges and universities in the country may be somewhat greater than it was in the old days, but in all the other schools it is on the decline."

"I said six, but as a matter of fact I can't think of more than two," he wouldn't say what two he meant.

"There really were drinkers in those days," he went on, a smile coming across his face as he recalled his college days.

"When they went on a drunk they didn't come back to school for days. Day after day the professor would meet his class, and find only girls there. The boys were still out."

HIRAM, O., Nov. 12.—Hiram College will celebrate the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of James A. Garfield, second president of Hiram College and twentieth president of the United States, on Nov. 19. James A. The picture was taken in 1870, and is typical of Hiram during James A. Garfield's presidency. The trees which have grown to five times the size, were planted at President Garfield's direction. Dr. Harry Augustus Garfield, will be the principal speaker of the day. He is the eldest son of James A. Garfield and has been the president of Williams College since 1908.

PICKAWAY-TWP SCHOOL NOTES

All of our seniors accompanied by Miss Wertman went to Columbus last Friday. Their first stop was at Baker's Art Gallery where they had sittings for their class picture. This was completed about 9:30, and the remainder of the day was spent on a tour of the city to study several places of interest in connection with the school course in government and sociology. This itinerary included the State House and its legislative hall, the W. A. I. U. broadcasting studios, the Ohio Penitentiary, the Columbus Dispatch, the Ohio State University, and the 'Archaeological' Museum. Arrangements were made in advance with the officials at the penitentiary and the Dispatch so that good guides were ready to conduct the group through promptly. The entire trip was very interesting and many things were observed first hand which could not possibly be secured by mere reading about these places. Each and every citizen in Ohio should have first-hand information about these places.

Our teachers all are planning to attend the county teachers' meeting at Ashville next Saturday. This will be an all day meeting with two addresses in the morning and two in the afternoon. Several music numbers will be furnished by the Ashville schools. This meeting will be a most appropriate conclusion for the school's part in the celebration of American Education week and briefly discuss the day-by-day topics that have been selected for this year.

COLORED PHOTOGRAPHY

MINNA, a new and simple method of color photography has been invented by the late photographer, Alfred Barnard. His three colors are made simultaneously on colored foils. The films are developed on a specially prepared paper on which the different colors become visible. The colors and the fastness of the new method has been the result of the copying. Three color prints can be made from one film on the same. The new invention is said to make color photography as cheap and easy as the black and white one.

Six-footers' To Feature State's Basketball Five

By FRANK E. FRIES

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 12.—A "sky scraper club" of strong young six-footers is being built up at Ohio State university for the specific purpose of giving the Buckeyes a Western Conference basketball championship this year.

A German emperor known as Frederick the Great had a personal bodyguard made up of six-footers a few hundred years ago to protect him from all his enemies. Coach H. G. Olsen, emperor of the basketball quiet, is depending upon his six-foot team to carry him unscathed through 17 games to the conference championship, and possibly to the mythical world's championship.

Practice started at the new gymnasium at the university Monday night, and 20 players turned out for the first call. About ten more are expected to report after football season, according to Coach Olsen.

"It is too early to predict anything for a team made up mostly of sophomores, but we should have a fairly good time," Coach Olsen said.

The boys will be sent through four secret practices a week until the close of the football season, and then they will start the regular five-a-week program, Olsen said.

'Tis Friday, the 13th

When the boys line up tomorrow
For the last game of the year
The game they play with Hillsboro
And they're going to play it here.

Folks who are superstitious
Are very apt to say
You can't win a game on the 13th
No matter how hard you play

But here's another angle
On a double double day
Why shouldn't the under fellows
Have the better of the play
They call it breaks in football
And breaks play an important role
And they've been against our fellows

For a very heavy toll
But we often find the fellow
Who is one who sits and twirls
His thumbs
And never takes a tumble

That the man who gets the better breaks
Is the one who makes his living
By being on the job to take
What old dame Fortune's giving.

When the 13th comes on Friday
So when opportunity comes along
Don't let her catch you napping
When you go on the field tomorrow
Kick old Jinx in the ear
And win that game, sweet baby,
Just listen to us cheer.

SPARTANS DEFEAT STAPLETON 14-12 IN EXCITING CONTEST

Safety Early in First Period on Blocked Kick Provides Necessary Margin; Passes Presnell to McKalip Aid Score While Strong's 64 Yard Sprint After a Punt is High Spot of League Tilt.

PORTSMOUTH, O., Nov. 12.—After gaining an early lead of 14 to 6, the Portsmouth Spartans, fighting with their backs to the wall for a chance to remain in the pennant race, managed to barely squeeze through with a 14-12 victory over the Staten Island team at Universal Stadium last night.

MARTHUR IS MERCHANT FOE

Local Team to Play Squad Which Defeated Oranegen By 2 Touchdowns.

Sunday afternoon the Circleville Merchants football will trek to McArthur to battle with the fast semi-pro team representing that city.

McArthur defeated the Chillicothe Oranegen Sunday by a score of 12 to 0. The Oranegen defeated the local team in their first game of the season at Chillicothe, but the locals have been improving steadily and are confident of taking the McArthur eleven into camp.

Three wins and two losses is the standing of the team's record thus far this season. All Circleville Merchant gridders are urged to report at the Armory at 7 o'clock Thursday evening for practice.

Six Seniors Play In Final Battle

One of the largest crowds of the season is expected to watch Circleville high school's gridiron climax the 1931 season when they tackle the Hillsboro team on the local field Friday afternoon.

The game will begin at 3 p. m. and Circleville high school's band, under the direction of C. F. Zaenglein will be on hand to furnish music for the occasion. Previous to the game the band will parade down town and then march back to the school field.

The Herberholz-coached lads are in the best of physical condition and are expected to put up a good fight. The Hillsboro team has one of the strongest football aggregations in central Ohio and the Red and Black will have a tough task in matching them.

Tomorrow's game will be the last high school football contest for six seniors, Bob Hundley, Pete Stout, Frank Dunlap, Bob Griffith, Lawrence Styers and Leroy Moore.

Three other senior members of the team dropped from the squad several weeks ago because of difficulties. Burghalter of Heidelberg and Jake Snuffer of Ohio Wesleyan will act as officials for tomorrow's contest.

TIFFIN, O., Nov. 12.—Ted Tunney has a strategical move up his sleeve for Cincinnati next Saturday, when he takes his Heidelberg Student Princes southward to meet the Bears. BETHANY, Va., Nov. 12.—Their last heavy scrimmage bout behind them, the Bison football squad to-day rehearsed play formations calculated to give them the upper hand against Grove City here Saturday.

HIRAM, O., Nov. 12.—Cargill, Hiram's tough tackle who has never missed a moment of play in nearly three years he has been on the squad, may not be able to keep his record going when the Terriers travel to Columbus to give Capital U. a tussle. Cargill was injured in the case fray and may be kept out of the contest Saturday.

ASHLAND, O., Nov. 12.—A long standing black mark against them will be wiped out if the Ashland College eleven is able to conquer Muskingum here next Saturday. On the only occasion the two teams have met, at New Concord in 1926, the local team lost, 6 to 0, because of a blocked punt.

BEHIND the SCENE In HOLLYWOOD

By HARRISON CARROLL

HOLLYWOOD, Cal. — In times like these motion picture fans can stand plenty of comedies.

It ought to be good news that Marie Dressler and Polly Moran are shortly to co-star in another of their laughests, "Prosperity." Zelda Sears, who has been occupied chiefly of late doctoring scripts, will get full credit for this original story.

While the production date naturally hinges on Marie Dressler's state of health, plans are being made for the picture to start soon after the star completes "Emma." By this time Polly Moran will have returned from her personal appearance tour in the East.

Leo McCarey, who has had some trouble settling down to a directorial assignment at M. G. M., will megaphone "Prosperity."

COULDN'T SEE THE JOKE.

During his stay in Hollywood, Jack Moffett, Kansas City newspaperman won a reputation as a practical joker.

His most famous exploit led to hot words between two studios. It seems that Jack and a fellow scenarist passed by a night location where another company was filming some explosion shots. Jack got out of the car, announced he was from the sheriff's office and demanded to see the permit for the explosions.

He held up production for almost an hour and then obligingly told the frantic assistant to go ahead.

Unfortunately, one of the electricians on the set recognized Jack's companion.

The next day, wires burned between the two studios.

Jack called his accomplice on the phone and, again posing as from the sheriff's office, threatened him with arrest for impersonating an officer.

GOEBEL SIGNED

Art Goebel has been signed by Radio Pictures to fly in their air epic, "The Lost Squadron." You haven't forgotten Goebel won the Dole flight in 1927 from Oakland to Honolulu.

Another well known flier who will appear in this picture is Frank Clark, who did many of the stunts for "Hell's Angels." The dangerous thrills, of course, will be supplied by Dick Grace, author of the story and stunt-ace of Hollywood.

over garage set back some distance from the street and overgrown with brambles, presented a weird scene for the tragic shooting. Small boys recently had been annoying him until he had wired shut the front gate and had barricaded himself alone in the tiny house.

Peters, a friend of many years, called the street car motorman's home and was greeted by the baying of two hounds. Donnelly had purchased to further aid him in protecting his home and himself.

Donnelly called out to Peters but the latter did not hear him. Then, the motorman told police, he saw Peters' shadow on the window and what looked like a gun in its hand. He fired twice blindly. "What have I done?" thought your pipe was a gun," neighbors said they heard Donnelly moan after he opened the door and saw the inert body of his friend.

ARREST 6 IN KIDNAP CASE

Attorney is One of Men Held For Abducting Wealthy St. Louis Fur Dealer.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Nov. 12.—Six persons, including Paul E. Richards, an attorney, were being held by police today in connection with the kidnaping of Alexander Berg, millionaire furrier who was freed early yesterday.

Meanwhile police were conducting a search for Berg's abductors. The abducted furrier, who was held captive four days, denied through his attorney that any ransom had been paid.

According to Adrian Levinson, representing the Berg family as an attorney, Richards represented himself to Levinson's father, Morris, as an agent of the kidnapers.

Chief of police Gerke declared last night that he was in his possession a stenographic report of a statement in which Richards was quoted as saying he could arrange Berg's release within two hours upon payment of $50,000 ransom.

$50,000 WORTH OF LIQUOR IS TAKEN

WOODS HOLE, Mass., Nov. 12.—Halted as flames revealed her on Block Island sound 2 1/2 miles off Sakonnet light and as a shot from a coastguard machine gun spat against her pilot house, the alleged rum running 76 foot speed boat Je T'Aime, carrying seven men and a cargo of $50,000 worth of liquor to Providence, R. I., was captured today.

BRITISH SHIP LOST

LONDON, Nov. 12.—The British mine sweeper Petersfield went aground early today on Tungtung island, near Hong Kong, and is being pounded to pieces on the rocks, according to a Hong Kong dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph company.

The steamship Derflinger rescued the officers and crew, including Admiral Sir William Kelley. The Petersfield was expected to be a total loss, but the British cruiser Suffolk and Cornwall were dispatched to the scene to determine if any of the vessel's equipment could be salvaged.

WOMAN TORTURED, ROBBED OF $200

CINCINNATI, O., Nov. 12.—Cruelty almost unprecedented in recent police court history sent authorities today on a determined search for two men who last night tortured a 50-year-old, rheumatic widow, breaking one of her legs to force her to surrender $200.

The woman, Mrs. Addie Porter, declared the two men gagged her and then twisted her arms and legs until she gave up $200 of the $300 she had hidden in her clothing.

One of the men, she believed, was "Mike," formerly a roomer at her house, and the other was "Buster," his companion. She said both were from Knoxville, Tenn.

Boys and Girls Clubs of Walnut-Tp. School Planning Play November 19

"The Belle of Bagdad" featuring the boys' and girls' glee clubs of Walnut-Twp. high school, will be presented in the school auditorium Thursday evening, Nov. 18 at eight o'clock. After being dark two winters the Walnut auditorium is to be opened under the management of Miss Mildred Ruffner, introducing new stars along with the old. Miss Ruffner is assisted by Miss Margaret Knapp, in charge of the dancing and Russell Drum, director of dramatics and Miss Grace Teegardin, accompanist.

"The Belle of Bagdad" is full of action. See Henrietta Whipstitch (Betty Scothorne), a near-sighted, romantic spinster, overtly pursuing the handsome Archie Fitzgibbons (Siebert Duvall), from dear old London, who has changed his mind now since the time he had surreptitiously made love to her "on a moonlit shore, and asked her if she cared." The two fall into these character parts is most commendable. And the heart-break of Henrietta (Betty Scothorne) when she sings "It Broke Me Up When He Threw Me Down." The wit and spice of the play are in the hands of these two.

Lelind (Frances Hartman) does some snappy dances. Mrs. J. Horning McCann (Mary Louise Kuhn), New American Consul in Bagdad, takes the reins into her own hands, demands justice for all and sees to it that peace and harmony are restored after the confusion of some arrests.

Her daughter, Elsa McCann (Elizabeth Reber) modestly bashful, delights in the duet "Yoo-Hoe" with her sweetheart, Bill Blake (Edison Newbauer).

Bob Ballentine (Walter Morehart), an airplane mechanic and his friend Bill Blake (Edison Newbauer) are plenty good.

Anne Blackwell (Mae Fosnaugh), a friend of Elsa's comes in to make the foursome complete. They sing two very catchy songs, "The World Is a Very Small Place" and "Lad-die of Love" which you won't soon be able to shake off.

Pompos Al Ben Mustapha, prefect of police, is screamingly carried out by Bill Cook. He bows only to the mighty potentate.

Hassan El Carib (Edgar Jinks), The Caliph of Bagdad, the mighty potentate himself, easily transports us to Bagdad when he, with the entire company sing "Bow Down."

Rose (Glenna Costlow) and Lily (Wilda Hanover), two of his daughters cleverly depict their parts.

Jewel (Frances Lanman), his favorite daughter, daintily and artistically plays the part of the heroine opposite Dick Taylor (Glenn England), from the Super-Supreme Film Co., the leading man. These two put the frosting on this harmonious musical, introducing a love theme without which no operetta would be complete.

An ensemble of many more snappy and catchy songs consists of: Sales girl—Grace Jinks; Georgia Littrell, John Carle, Howard Cordray, Lola Hoover, William Han-

"Much as we would like to see fine wide super-highways, our funds for 1932 will not permit a large program of this sort," White told Merrell. "I am asking you to expand every effort to conserve the present investment on our narrow roads and make them safe for traffic by widening and placing new tops."

"In line with the program inaugurated at the beginning of my administration, you have, as I am informed, built 217 miles of this type at an average cost of less than $7,500 per mile. I am sure that the results have fully demonstrated the merits of this plan."

non, Lawrence Lynch, Verdale, Polling, Emerson Brown, Thelma Plun, Virginia McCord, Faye Solt, Mary Alice Muller, Jennie Kern, Glenn Kiger, Thelma Lathouse, Helen Moss. The high school orchestra will furnish music between acts.
